When it comes to fantasy baseball, having a reliable first baseman is crucial. This position often contributes greatly to your team's offensive production, providing power, RBIs, and a high batting average. The Arizona Diamondbacks have had some stellar first basemen over the years, and we will take a closer look at their performances and potential impact on your fantasy team.

Paul Goldschmidt: The Golden Standard

Paul Goldschmidt is undoubtedly one of the best first basemen in recent history. He played for the Diamondbacks from 2011 to 2018 before being traded to the St. Louis Cardinals. However, his impact during his time in Arizona cannot be overlooked.

During his tenure with the Diamondbacks, Goldschmidt consistently put up impressive numbers. In terms of power, he averaged 31 home runs per season, with a career-high of 36 in 2017. Additionally, he contributed greatly in the RBIs category, regularly surpassing the 100 mark. Goldschmidt's ability to hit for average was equally noteworthy, with a career batting average of .297.

From a fantasy perspective, Goldschmidt was a reliable and consistent performer. He provided excellent value across multiple categories, making him a highly sought-after player. If you were fortunate enough to have him on your fantasy team during his time in Arizona, your chances of winning the league were significantly improved.

Christian Walker: A Rising Star

After Goldschmidt's departure, the Diamondbacks turned to Christian Walker to fill the first base position. Although Walker had big shoes to fill, he has shown great potential and has become a name to watch in the fantasy baseball world.

In his first full season as a starter in 2019, Walker displayed his power-hitting abilities by blasting 29 home runs. He also contributed 73 RBIs, showing his ability to drive in runs. While his batting average could use some improvement, his power numbers make him an intriguing option for fantasy managers.

Walker's performance in the short 2020 season was equally impressive. In just 57 games, he managed to hit 7 home runs and drive in 34 runs. These numbers, projected over a full season, indicate that Walker has the potential to be a valuable fantasy asset.

With each passing season, Walker continues to refine his skills and develop as a first baseman. As he gains more experience, we can expect his numbers to improve, making him an even more enticing option for fantasy managers.

When it comes to fantasy baseball, having a strong first baseman is essential. The Arizona Diamondbacks have had a rich history of talented first basemen, and the tradition continues with players like Paul Goldschmidt and Christian Walker. While Goldschmidt has moved on to a new team, his impact during his time with the Diamondbacks cannot be overlooked.

Christian Walker, on the other hand, is a rising star in the fantasy baseball world. With his power-hitting abilities and potential for growth, he presents a great opportunity for fantasy managers looking to strengthen their roster.

As you embark on your fantasy baseball journey, keep in mind the contributions that these first basemen can make to your team. Whether it be the consistency of Goldschmidt or the potential of Walker, having an Arizona Diamondbacks first baseman on your roster can elevate your fantasy team to new heights.
