A miscarriage is one of the most devastating things that can happen to a couple. You grieve and become fearful. Fearful that parts of history may repeat itself, the part where you lose your baby at 3 months old so you decide to not try again for another child. Yes, that part! But then, by God's grace, you somehow got over your fears and are ready to try again. You tried and nothing happened, you keep trying, and still nothing. You decided to check with your doctor or even get a new doctor to find out what is happening. And then, out of nowhere, you get smacked with a curveball. That curveball for many women is the awful diagnosis of Infertility.

Infertility is a journey no one should have to walk. It's a journey filled with shame, unworthiness, anger, jealousy, and has sometimes, caused relationships to suffer.

Take this 14-day faith-filled journey with me as I share parts of my story of becoming a mom. On my journey, you will see the pangs of miscarriage and infertility. I share the many honest and raw emotions I felt like, unworthiness and brokenness. You will see how I was overcome by grief and fear as I experienced heartbreak. And how a faith shift was needed for my breakthrough. It is also a story of God's faithfulness to His word and how He answered.

My hope for you is that as you read this devotional, your faith will be deepened in God and that you too will receive an answer to your prayers.
