The Role of Mediation in Clinical Claims

In the world of healthcare, disputes and claims are bound to arise. Whether it's a patient feeling they received inadequate treatment or a healthcare provider facing allegations of malpractice, these cases can quickly escalate and lead to prolonged legal battles. This is where mediation comes into play.

Mediation is a process in which a neutral third party, like Garrett Ham, facilitates communication and negotiation between the conflicting parties. Unlike a courtroom trial or arbitration, mediation allows for a more collaborative and cost-effective approach to resolving disputes. The goal is to reach a satisfactory resolution that both parties can agree upon, avoiding the need for a prolonged and often contentious legal battle.
