Why Choose a Career in the Nonprofit Sector?

The nonprofit sector offers a unique environment where individuals can make a meaningful impact on their communities and the world while pursuing their professional goals. Unlike the for-profit sector, which primarily focuses on generating profits, nonprofit organizations are driven by a mission to address and solve societal problems.

In the nonprofit sector, you have the chance to work for causes you deeply care about, whether it's promoting education, fighting poverty, preserving the environment, or advocating for human rights. This alignment between personal values and professional work can bring a sense of purpose and fulfillment that is often lacking in other career paths.

Unlocking New Opportunities

Reinventing your career in the nonprofit sector opens up a world of new opportunities for personal and professional growth. It allows you to develop valuable skills, expand your network, and gain diverse experiences.

Nonprofit organizations are often in need of individuals with a wide range of expertise, including marketing, fundraising, project management, event planning, and more. This means that regardless of your background, there is likely a role that suits your skills and interests.

Moreover, nonprofit organizations offer numerous training and development opportunities to support their staff. This can include workshops, seminars, and certifications, allowing you to continuously enhance your skills and stay updated with the latest practices in your field.

The Challenges and Rewards

Transitioning to a career in the nonprofit sector also comes with its own set of challenges. Nonprofits often operate on smaller budgets and have limited resources, which can require you to be adaptable, creative, and efficient in your work. However, these challenges can also foster a sense of resourcefulness and innovation that can greatly benefit your career growth.

Moreover, the impact of your work in the nonprofit sector can be immensely rewarding. Seeing the direct results of your efforts and the positive change you're making can provide a deep sense of fulfillment and satisfaction, making every challenge worth it.

How to Start Your Journey

If you're ready to embark on a career reinvention in the nonprofit sector, here are a few steps to get you started:

1. Self-reflection: Identify the causes and issues you are most passionate about. What problems do you want to help solve?

2. Research: Learn about the nonprofit organizations working in your chosen field. Understand their missions, values, and current initiatives.
3. Networking: Connect with professionals already working in the nonprofit sector. Attend industry events, participate in online communities, and seek informational interviews to expand your network.
4. Volunteering: Offer your time and skills to nonprofit organizations as a volunteer. This will allow you to gain hands-on experience, make valuable connections, and demonstrate your commitment to the cause.
5. Training and education: Consider attending workshops, seminars, or pursuing relevant certifications to enhance your skills and knowledge in the nonprofit sector.
6. Job search: Look for job openings in nonprofit organizations that align with your passion and skills. Tailor your resume and cover letter to highlight how your background can contribute to their mission.

Reinventing your career in the nonprofit sector offers a chance to make a meaningful impact while pursuing personal and professional growth. By aligning your passion with your work, you can find purpose and fulfillment like never before.

So, take the leap, unlock new opportunities, and embark on a journey that will not only reinvent your career but also help make the world a better place.

Have you been thinking about a career change? Does the nonprofit sector sound like it might be for you?

In "Make the Jump: Reinvent Your Career in the Nonprofit Sector" you'll learn what nonprofit executive search leader Marcia Ballinger has figured out after working with hundreds of nonprofit organizations and counseling thousands of executives. If you:

- Are feeling like you want to “give back”
- Would like to work for an organization that is “mission driven”
- Want to do work that benefits society
- Seek to feel more inspired and fulfilled by your contributions

This book is for you!

The Goal

The goal of "Make the Jump: Reinvent Your Career in the Nonprofit Sector" is two-fold:

First, you'll get an overview of the nonprofit sector along with a reality check so you can discern if making the jump is right for you.

Next, you'll get step by step guidance on how to secure a role at a nonprofit.

Resumes, cover letters, interviews, and networking tips are included. You'll also learn about a number of ways that you can "get into a nonprofit" that don't include securing a full-time permanent job.

Resources Included in This Book:

This book contains no-nonsense advice intended for people who want the straight scoop about what it takes to get into the nonprofit sector and be successful once you arrive.

Specific topics include:

- Why a Nonprofit?
- Stories of folks who "made the jump"
- What Nonprofits Want
- Getting Hired in a Nonprofit Role
- Searching for Nonprofit Roles (Resumes, recruiters and rallying your network)
- Nailing the Nonprofit Interview
- Derailers

- Getting Hired
- Sticking the Landing
- Ten Ways to Make the Jump

What People Are Saying about "Make the Jump":

“This book is your jumping-off point and a handy, insightful roadmap to forge your new career as a difference-maker in the non-profit sector.”

Joseph Daniel McCool

“This is a masterpiece for anyone who is serious about a JUMP from the corporate to nonprofit sector.”

Christopher J. King, PhD, MHSc, FACHE

Chair, Health Systems Administration, Georgetown University

“When I was making my own JUMP from big time college athletic coaching, “reinventing” myself, Marcia helped me with my next chapter. With her guidance and support, I built a business that is soaring, a nonprofit organization that is amazing, and currently serve on three boards. Make sure you read this book.”

Pam Borton

Senior Executive Coach, Global Executive Team Coach, Professional Speaker, Author

“This is one of those go-to books on your shelf that will be highlighted in yellow and the pages dog-eared. I guarantee that you’ll reference before every informational meeting, interview, and call with recruiter if you are thinking about doing meaningful work that impacts lives in the nonprofit sector.”

Anne Pryor

LinkedIn Expert, Career Coach, Lovitude

“Marcia Ballinger has written a must-read and must-follow book for all who are considering moving from the business world into a leadership role in nonprofits. Her connections and stories will resonate with each turn of the page.”

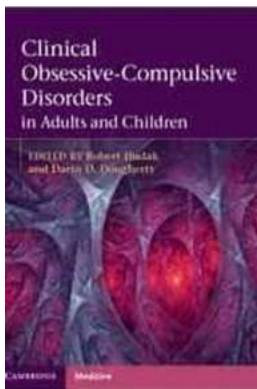

Diana Pierce

News Anchor (retired); Host, What’s Next: For Those Past 50

“Many need to keep earning an income, but they also want work that more directly reflects their values and beliefs. How to make the transition? Marcia Ballinger taps into her many years of experience to offer readers a practical blueprint.”
