Surrendering to the Divine

Pushpavanta arrived at a sacred ashram, hidden amidst the towering mountains and dense forests. As he stepped onto the hallowed grounds, an overwhelming sense of peace enveloped him. It was here that he met his Guru, a revered saint known for his wisdom and compassion.

Under the guidance of his Guru, Pushpavanta learned the art of surrender - the art of letting go of ego, desires, and attachments. Day by day, he immersed himself in devotional practices, chanting mantras, and performing selfless acts of service. Every action he performed became an offering to the divine, an expression of his boundless love.

It is said that his touch could heal wounds, and his words could soothe troubled minds. His presence alone radiated warmth and compassion, leaving all who encountered him forever changed.

"Positive immortality is possible only for the surrendered (prapannānām). All others are neccessarily mortal. Only those who have wholly given themselves to the Center, are living in eternality. Surrender is fully established in its excellence and constant position. Yet there is variegatedness within that constancy in the form of progressiveness or pastimes (vilāsa). The Supreme Absolute Personality, being infinitely superior to both 'mutable' mortals and the immutable 'immortal', only those who are perfectly established in their divine relationship with Him (svarūpa-siddha), are eternally freed from the disease of mutation and mortality (svarūpeṇa vyavasthiti)."
