One of the most prominent areas showcasing Bucharest's vibrant street art scene is the colorful district of Pantelimon. Here, the walls are adorned with captivating drawings, abstract geometric patterns, and thought-provoking motifs. Each mural tells a unique story, drawing inspiration from local culture, history, and current social issues.

Another popular spot for street art enthusiasts is the neighborhood of Lipscani, known for its vibrant nightlife and Bohemian atmosphere. Here, the narrow streets are peppered with colorful murals that create an enchanting juxtaposition against the historic buildings.

The growing popularity of street art in Bucharest has attracted international artists as well, who are eager to leave their mark on this urban landscape. The annual Street Delivery festival brings together artists from around the world, turning parts of the city into an open-air gallery and attracting art enthusiasts from far and wide.

Open-Air Galleries: Where Creativity Thrives

In addition to street art, Bucharest is home to numerous open-air galleries that enhance the city's creative spirit. These galleries provide platforms for local and international artists to display their artwork in public spaces, bridging the gap between traditional art spaces and the streets of Bucharest.

The Combinatul Fondului Plastic Gallery, located in Herastrau Park, is a prime example of the city's commitment to promoting art in unconventional spaces. This outdoor gallery features sculptures and installations that interact with the park's natural surroundings, creating a unique and immersive art experience for visitors.

Another noteworthy open-air gallery is the Art Safari Bucharest, which takes place annually in Herastrau Park. This event brings together over 100 artists who exhibit their work in park pavilions, allowing visitors to explore various artistic styles and engage with the creators themselves.

Open-air galleries in Bucharest not only provide a platform for artists to showcase their work, but they also encourage public interaction and engagement with art. These spaces invite locals and tourists to appreciate creativity in unexpected settings, fostering a sense of community and cultural exchange.

Trendy Fashion Boutiques: Where Style Meets Originality

Bucharest is a trendsetter when it comes to fashion and style, and its streets are lined with trendy boutiques that showcase the city's sartorial creativity. From unique concept stores to independent designers' boutiques, Bucharest offers a plethora of options for those looking to stay ahead of the fashion curve.

One of the popular fashion districts in Bucharest is the Old Town, where a charming mix of traditional architecture and contemporary boutiques coexist. This area is a haven for fashion enthusiasts, offering a wide selection of local and international brands that cater to different tastes and styles.

Another fashion hotspot in Bucharest is the Victoriei Avenue, known for its luxury boutiques and high-end fashion retailers. Here, fashion aficionados can immerse themselves in a world of designer labels and exclusive collections.

Bucharest's fashion scene also thrives on the creativity of local designers who blend traditional Romanian elements with modern aesthetics. These designers often have their own flagship stores or participate in local fashion events, showcasing their original creations and contributing to the city's reputation as a fashion-forward destination.

Bucharest, a city brimming with trends and creativity, offers a captivating blend of street art, open-air galleries, and trendy fashion boutiques. The streets of Bucharest serve as a canvas for talented artists to express themselves, while open-air galleries provide unique art experiences for both locals and visitors. The city's fashion scene is also a hub for originality, attracting fashion enthusiasts from all over the world.

Whether it's exploring the vibrant street art scene, immersing oneself in art exhibitions in open-air galleries, or indulging in the latest fashion trends, Bucharest is a city that continues to foster creativity and inspire those who seek a taste of its artistic soul.

Why I published in 2019 a book about street fashion from 2009? First of all, because of life and circumstances. Secondly, because I think some of the photos I made then capture a youthful spirit that lives on and although trends come and go, there's something about fashion that doesn't change. It would be too much to say that these people I photographed are dressed in an atemporal fashion because they are not, but their look is still relevant today.

I initiated Bucharest UrbnStyle project in September 2007 and kept it active till June 2009. This blog was a hobby, not my main activity, during that time I was working as a desktop publisher for a Romanian Magazine, the people I photographed were people I met during the day or at events that I attended. I tried to show a part of Romania with an emphasis on what was beautiful about it, people, places, events. I had faith that this could bring hope and inspiration to the people seeing them, hope that things are changing and changing for the better in our country and inspiration to be more daring and creative themselves.

For me fashion is mostly about creativity. I believe that we are all born with a degree of creativity that we can increase it during our lifetime by practicing a creative way of thinking, even in combining our clothes. For those who give it a chance, I think that fashion taste can be cultivated. There are individuals that are born with great fashion sense but most have to work for it. We all have the potential to learn, we're simply at different levels of visual culture. It matters if you're motivated to learn more or not. You just have to stay open, to see more, analyze more, have the courage to try more, accepting the possibility that you can make mistakes, but knowing that you will learn from them. The Internet is a valuable resource where people can access information and communicate, I'm using its power to make available photos with people of Bucharest for anyone interested in our culture. Now the blog has moved to Constanta and you can see creatively dressed people on <http://www.UrbnStyle.ro>
